- Ways to earn academic credit for work-related experiences to save time and money
GAIN A CAREER-ORIENTED, GLOBALLY INFORMED EDUCATION.

At New College, you’ll gain the problem solving, communication and leadership skills that prepare you to advance in your career, or begin a new one.

Cultivating a global outlook is also a vital part of the St. Edward’s University experience. You’ll have access to enriching seminars featuring international topics and scholars, campus events that celebrate different cultures and optional week-long international trips aligned with your interests.

In the tradition of our Holy Cross founders, our nationally recognized, liberal arts education prepares you to think critically, act ethically, respect diversity and serve others. Join a university where individuals of all beliefs and backgrounds engage in purposeful studies and give back to their communities.
At St. Edward’s, experiential learning is brought into the classroom. And the sharing of processes among classmates and faculty helps me to be a better student and in turn helps me to accomplish what I need to succeed in the business world.

– Jimmy Johnson ’13
Assistant Director for the Office of Emergency Preparedness, UT–Austin
Whatever your path, St. Edward’s has the right major to help you achieve your goals.

TURN YOUR WORK-RELATED EXPERIENCES AND KNOWLEDGE INTO CREDIT.

New College offers you opportunities to earn credit for what you already know and have achieved.

- Match your knowledge gained from work experiences to specific college courses and earn credit in our portfolio program.
- Choose from more than 65 exams (CLEP and DSST) to earn college credit for what you’ve already learned.
- Use transfer credits toward your degree with prior coursework. We’ll help you determine if credits from other regionally accredited colleges count toward your studies at St. Edward’s.
- Take advantage of expertise gained in the workforce or the military for academic credit or turn your professional licenses and certifications, such as EMT, peace officer or real estate agent, into college credits.

These represent actual student examples of how you can turn your work-related experiences into credit and how it can save you time and money.
